Actant is ISE Compliant - Clients all set to take advantage of new Competitive Market Maker trading rights

On the back of ISE's launch of its restructured Competitive Market Maker (CMM) trading rights on September 1, 2011, Actant is pleased to announce that its quoting solution, Actant Quote, is ISE compliant.

Integrated into its existing product, current clients trading as ISE CMMs will be able to instantly and seamlessly take advantage of the greater flexibility to select the options classes they would like to quote, without bin restrictions.

Actant's Head of Product Development, Daniel Ekengren states, "It is fantastic news that the ISE have undertaken this restructuring, which will allow our clients to strategize and operate as market makers more freely and effectively in the volatile markets of today, and we are delighted to be able to leverage this flexibility, removing any transitional burden and allowing them to get on with trading."

Earlier this year, Actant launched its new real-time automated trading engine, Actant ExStream, which has also been making waves amongst the buy-side community. Scanning the markets for opportunities and executing orders against pre-set trading criteria, Actant ExStream further offers a market-driven, constantly expanding library of pre-packaged trading algorithms or access to a scripting studio, for truly innovative trading strategy creation.

Adds Daniel, "Our algorithmic trading capability is certainly going down well with the traders. With ExStream, they have peace of mind that they instantly can create and adapt trading strategies in response to market conditions or short-lived opportunities without long-winded development cycles."
